After having a couple of our senior authenticators review the photos you have provided it has been communicated that the pair you have received is within the production standards for a pair of Nike Dunk Low Championship Red (2021), and we are not seeing anything out of the ordinary for this pair.

The good news is we have had this pair reviewed both in hand and via the photos you have provided and confirmed authenticity both times. If you are uninterested in keeping what you have received we would suggest reselling this pair on StockX, since they would pass verification once again.

If you have any other questions feel free to reach back out to us.

Thanks,

Tristan
